Howdy boys. I could figure out the photos because I was in them, but the text left me curious...I assume you said nice things. Say hello to Vania and the crew.

We are suffering a heat wave in Northern California now. Stage II Alert. and it's about killing me. I went up on the roof and threw tarps over all seven skylights. Max and Mona look pretty punk, but they just don't want anything to do with cold water. Me, I'm sitting in the lawn sprinklers.

I'm almost unpacked, but I still enjoy finding little treasures in my baggage. Thanks for all the treasures to keep the memories alive.

As soon as I transfer some photos to this computer, I'll start to post images. Cheers,
Jim
